mailed back with the signedapplication. In this way, we can provide speedy service and save claimants the inconvenience of driving to our office to file," Mr. Vinson explained. "Through teleservice, we can further promote the Social Security Administration's objective ofpaying the right person the right amount at the right time.

"Some people who live out of town may be reluctant to call us thinking a lengthy 'phone call would be too costly, " Mr. Vinson continued. "If our interviewer finds it will take several minutes to discuss the matter, he will have the person hang up and he will then telephone him at our expense."

Other services can also be provided by telephone. Do you need to have the address changed on your social security check? Does your child need a social security card? Do you need a replacement for a lost or stolen social security card? All these services are as close to your as your telephone.

"Although most matters can be handled by telephone, occasionally there are complications which do require a personal interview to resolve. In these situations, a visit to the office would be necessary. However, a telephone call is a good way to start and will shorten the time from the filing of the application to the receipt of the first check," Mr. Vinson concluded.

program would likewise show benefit to the taxpayers. The board agreed to withhold approval of the $6,646 for the time being, subject to approval by othe r participating governments of their share of the cost.

This county's share is part of a total program of $132,936 being asked of all the counties and cities participating and part of a $666,144 total program as outlined by Dr. Gardner. Appomattox has 6% of the population of the area represented, and is asked to pay only 5% of the total local funds' expense.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Dr. J. B. Kinlaw, health director and his assistant, Fred Kezee, discussed with the board the matter of solid waste disposal and the county's responsibilities, based on a plan for solid waste disposal submitted to the Va. Dept. of Solid Waste and Vector Control.

BROCHURES

The board voted a supplemental allocation of $250 to be sent to the Appomattox County Chamber of Commerce for payment for printing 100,000 Appomattox brochures. This is added to the $250 allocation in this year's budget. O. W. Martin, who also serves on the Chamber of Commerce board, said that the 100,000 brochures, printed last year and expected to last for two years, are almost gone because of the demand from tourists, persons writing for information and other requests.

Pittman also said that all requests for secondary road improvements made last year were granted with only one exception, a project which proved to be too costly. Road viewers will be going out this week, he said, to review requests made during the March 1972 roadrequest meeting for improvements and additions to the secondary system.

Considerable time was devoted to the matter of cutting highway number 727 south of
